Her revolutionary discovery is the fact that it's the rhythm that matters in the accurate physiological replacement of hormones without side-effects for women in the second half of life. Wiley's findings may have important implications across a wide range of areas, from the treatment of menopause and anti-aging to all of the other diseases of aging such as heart disease and stroke, Type II diabetes, cancer and Alzheimer's disease. The heart of Wiley's endocrine research in women is based in chronobiology and circadian rhythmicity.
